

2021 Republic of Marshall Islands Report / Get to know / Schools & their leaders / School leader self-reflections

School leader self-reflections

The well-being and satisfaction of school leaders is likely to have an effect on the longevity of school leaders in their roles. It is also likely that leaders experiencing poor well-being in their role are likely to find their engagement and productivity negatively affected.